

Please do not lift the ban on cell phone use on airplanes during flights. Cell phone use on the ground is annoying enough, but at least a person can walk away. On a plane, there would be nowhere to go to escape it. Also, I agree with the flight attendant stance that people talking on cell phones are distracted from what's going on around them and, in emergency situations, would not respond to safety directives, thereby posing a hazard to the safety of the plane and the passengers. Please do not allow the use of cell phones during flights.
